The Present House-Nomething about the New Members of the House of Representatives.

In the House of Representatives of the Forty-sixth Congress, which began its sessions yesterday, there are 287 members, California having yet to elect her delegation of four members, and there being vacancies in New York and Texas caused by the deaths of Messrs. Alexander Smith and Gustave Schleicher. Of these 287 members, 155 served in the last House, while many of the new members have at previous times been representatives.

No member of the last House went up to the Senate. Death was unusually busy in the House during the Forty-fifth Congress-Messrs. Julian Hartridge, of Georgia; Alpheus S. Williams, of Michigan; John I. Leonard, of Louisiana; Frank Welch, of Nebraska; Terence J. Quinn, of New York; Gustave Schleicher, of Texas, and Beverly B. Douglas, of Virginia, being cut down. Of these gentlemen but one (Mr. Schleicher) had been reelected to Congress. Of their successors, where the vacancies were filled, Messrs. John M. Bailey, of New York, and R. L. T. Beale, of Virginia, are members of the present House. A number of very notable members of the House are among those retired, among them being Messrs. Carter H. Harrison (Dem.), of Illinois, the author of the famous Marine-Band speech; Horatio C. Burchard, of Illinois, Minister Washbuyne's successor, now Director of the Mint; John R. Eden, of Illi-Eugene Hale, of Maine; Thomas Swann, of Maryland, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs; Nathaniel P. Banks, of Massachusetts, now United States marshal; and General B. F. Butgan; Robert A. Hatcher, of Missouri; John M. Glover, of Missouri, the investigator; Abram S. Hewitt, Clarkson N. Potter, George M. Beebe, Martin I. Townsend, and George A. Baglev, of New York; Curtis H. Brogden and Alfred M. Wuddell, of ton, of Texas; Gilbert C. Walker, of Virconsin. There will be no colored representative in Congress this session, and but one senator of African descent, Mr. Bruce, of Mississippi. As a rule, the southern States have made but slight changes in their delegations, for though Alabama returned but three of the ten; Louisiana, one in six; Mississippi, South Carolina, three in five (the three new to a change); Texas, two in six (one due to the most faithful to their members, return-

Of the new members many have already made desirable records in Congress or are described as men of promise. Mr. Burwell B. Lewis, of Alabama, served in the Forlyfourth Congress acceptably; Mr. Poindexter Dunn, the new member from Arkansas, showed in his canvass the good gifts of eloquence and moderation. General Joseph R. Hawley, of Connecticut, is too widely known to need description. Of the new members from Georgia, Messrs. John C. Nicholls and N. I. Hammond bring unenviable reputations for character and ability, and Mr. Emory Speer, the gentleman from the Ninth district-than whom only Mr. Taylor, of Tennessee, is younger in years of the members of the present House-is described as one of the most brilliant speakers of the South and a man worthy in every way to represent the famous Mountain District, which, within the memory of this generation, has sent Washington such men as Howell Cobb, Junius Hillyer, James Jackson, and Ben. Hill. Of the Illinois new members only Adlai E. Stevenson has served before. General James W. Singleton, fron the Quincy District, is a gentleman of force of character and ability, and Captain John R. Thomas promises to be a useful and hard-working member. In Indiana, Godlove S. Orth and Jeptha D. New, both men of talent, are returned once more, and from Iowa is sent ex-Governor Cyrus C. Carpenter, who has had a long experience in public life, both in his adopted State and at Washington. Mr. John A. Anderson, of Kunsas, is an ex-clergyman and college president, of turn, found a seat, a man of respectable, fair powers, and Mr. Philip B. Thompson, Jr., of Kentucky, has the talent and apti- by, I know not what in the conversation tude of his distinguished family. Maryland sends a good substitute for ex-Governor listening, suddenly, in the great voice Swann in Mr. Robert M. McLane, a veteran soldier, lawyer, and diplomatist, who has said to Mr. Longfellow: "Be you in the already served two terms in Congress, where he made his mark. Minnesota sends | sent," answered Mr. Longfellow, leaving it one of her most prominent residents-Mr. to be inferred that he might be contempla-William D. Washburn, whose business ca- ting that traffic in the near future; or might pacity has long been approved. Of the new very recently have quitted it; and looking members from Missouri, Mr. Erastus Wells with a half swile at me, the amused stranger has already sat in the House, where he left opposite, as if the reflection had crossed his the reputation of a modest, hard-working, mind and might cross mine-that a poet and useful member, and Judge Samuel L. Sawyer is an accomplished lawyer and ing. The "No. sir; not at present," a man of high character. Ex-Secretary George M. Robeson is the most conspicuous further remark, "I'm in the hop business of the new members from New Jersey, but the Republican representatives from the Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh districts are highly spoken of for ability and experience. The Ohio delegation will be a strong one, despite the retirement of Messrs. Cox, Sayler. Southard, and others. Mr. Thomas L. Young is a veteran and successful politician; his Cincinnati colleague, Mr. Benjamin Butterworth, has a high local reputa-tion; Mr. Frank H. Hurd, who was in Congress before, is one of the best lawyers of the State, and Mr. W. D. Hill is qualified down his strong hand heavily on Mr. Longby his training and experience of public affairs to become a most useful congressman. Mr. John Whiteaker, of Oregon, was the first Governor of the State of which he is one of the oldest and most respected citizens. Of the new members from the Keystone State, nearly all are well spoken of for ability and character: Mr. was that was not in the wool business, Horntto G. Fisher is especially likely to and who liked the hop-plant so well, but I prove an acquisition; General H. H. Bing-forbore, reflecting that the name might not ham, of Philadelphia, is a clever and experienced man, and should ex-Governor Andrew G. Curtin be successful in his contest that once on taking my place in the morning train for Providence, and unfolding my delection will be materially reinforced. delegation will be materially reinforced. paper, I bad exclaimed, as my eye fell on The three new members from South Caro-lina-Messrs. John S. Richardson, M. P. Wellington dead 13 and my neighbor in the O'Connor, and G. D. Tillman—come with high local reputations for competence and swered civilly, yet as if knowing many character. Of the Tennesseeans all are Dukes, "Ab, indeed! Whereof?" worthy of a place on a delegation exceptionally strong. Mr. Robert L. Taylor, the junior member of the House-who "fiddled

publican colleague, is also spoken of as a decided acquisition in talent and character to the House. In spite of the death of Mr. Schleicher the Texas delegation remains a very strong one—Mr. Throckmorton's successor, Mr. Olia Wellborn, though a very young man, being highly commended for talent, eloquence, and earnestness. Of the new members from Vermont Mr. James Manning Tyler has attained a good rank in his profession (the law), and General Bradley Barlow lacks neither cleverness nor an acquaintance with men and things at Washington. Finally, General Joseph E. Johnston, of Virginia, if not very familiar with public business, should make one of the most useful members of the House; and his colleague from the First district, Mr. R. L. T. Beale, has already served in Congress and attained an honorable position in his profession.

The Gulf Stream and the Weather. [From the New York Journal of Commerce.]

We occasionally receive shipmasters' reports of apparent great changes in the course of the Gulf stream off our coast. forms the Gulf stream to a line nearer our coast than usual makes the land temperature higher, while the receding of the stream further into the Atlantic gives us a spell of cold weather. About all this there is nothing improbable. It is merely a question of fact. The climate of the At lantic tier of States would undoubtedly be much affected by a material change in the course of the mighty ocean current. Does the phenomeron take place at intervals, or at all? Some of the ancient mariners say yes. But the officers of the United States Coast Survey, who ought to ners say yes. But the officers of the United States Coast Survey, who ought to understand the subject, both in practice and theory are of a contrary opinion. Of late theory, are of a contrary opinion. Of late years the Gulf stream has not been specially observed by them with the view of determining this point. But, between the years 1845 and 1860, the then superintendent of the Coast Survey, Professor A. D. Bache, directed a most elaborate series nois, the chairman of the Committee on Southern Claims; William A. Phillips, of the conclusion that the Gulf stream Kansas; Milton J. Durham, of Kentucky; flows in a course essentially unaltered from year to year. The permanency was very remarkable. Surveys and soundings of different sections of the stream along our coast coincided very closely in different years. The fact is mentioned that on ler, who hopes to be Governor; the late General A. S. Williams, of Michigans, the Cape Henry section, which was explored three times, the positions of the cold wall (the well-defined edge of the warm current) and of the axis of the stream itself were reproduced within five and a half miles of each other. This is a very close agreement, considering the liability to error in ascertaining positions at sea. North Carolina; Milton Sayler, Henry B. The change, if any, in that case was tri-Banning, Americus V. Rice, Jacob D. Cox vial compared with that reported to have (ex-Secretary of the Interior). The most complete report ever prepared by those officers on the subject declares: "It must be admitted that the permanency of the bands and the accuracy of the observations of them are fully proved."

though Ambania returned out three of the eight congressinen who represented her in the last House, Arkansas makes but one change in four districts; Florida, none; Georgia, three in nine; Kentucky, three in ble, and believed to be a fact, that the Georgia, three in nine; Kentucky, three in ble, and believed to be a fact, that the surface water of the Gulf stream may none; North Carolina, four in eight (three blown out of its course by a continuous of these are to be attributed to change of strong wind for a distance of many the political complexion of the districts); miles. But this change would not necessarily affect the great body of the curmembers having been Democratic nominees rent, flowing many fathoms below the surin 1876); Tennessee, four in ten (one due face. The general course of the Gulf a change); Virginia, three in nine, and West Virginia, none. Of the northern States, Wisconsin and Massachusetts are of the surface water must not be mistaken ing respectively seven of eight, and nine of for that of the stream itself, and is probably insufficient at any time to explain the observed modifications of climate on shore.

The Gulf stream is, however, liable to changes of temperature, if not of position, and by these the climate may be sensibly affected. The Coast-Survey report declares that the mean temperatures of the sections vary considerably from year to year, and probably from season to season. It has been noticed, for example, that the mean temperature of the Cape-Hatteras section in 1848 to 1853 differed two degrees. These differences are accounted for by the varying temperatures in the Gulf of Mexico, which is the birthplace of the stream. A prevalence of hot weather in the Gulf has been observed, we are told, to affect the temperature of the stream off Cape Henry in about seven days. Much remains to be learned about the Gulf stream, and the part it plays in climatology. At present the burden of evidence is in favor of a change of temperature and not a change of position, as the active cause of modifications in climate along the Atlantic coast.

AN ANECDOTE OF LONGFELLOW. The Boston correspondent of the Providence Journal writes: I remember a little incident that occurred some years ago in a street-car on the way to Boston. Not so in this instance. With the never-failing courtesy which belongs to him, Mr. Longfellow, turning fully toward his neighbor, said: "I have often been struck with the beauty of that plant; its way of growing, its blossoms, and then the hops themselves." The other, in his delight at the genial appreciation, brought fellow's knce (I think he must have winced). and uttered the one word "splendid" in a shout that might, one would think, have DESIRABLY LOCATED, FOR SALE, LEASE been heard from Mount Auburn to the
